July 2011 Healing 1.0: Answered Prayers

As a healer I've been able to witness first-hand just how deeply our prayers are answered. I am always inspired and encouraged. A healing I did with Robin is one of many where I've been able to see Grace in action.

Robin was facing surgery for breast cancer. To make sure everything went smoothly and she recovered easily, she set up a long distance healing for the day before her surgery.

As I began the healing, I connected to Robin's energy field and transmitted harmony and radiant light. I also worked directly on her breast to prepare it for surgery.

Then, I turned my attention to the operating room. When I got there, I saw that the operating room was already filled with radiant light. It was packed with angels! I knew immediately that Robin would be well taken care of during and after surgery. I was awed by what I saw.

After the session, I told Robin that she had nothing to worry about. "There are a lot of angels in the operating room, watching over you," I told her.

Robin was very pleased. "I've been praying so much," she told me. "I'm glad to know they are there for me."

Robin's surgery went smoothly. She was sent home the same day. After two days her post-surgical pain faded, and she knew she was on the road to recovery. I have no doubt that the power of Robin's prayers helped her during every step of her diagnosis, surgery and recovery.
